Join the fifth international „Fascination of Plants Day“ 2019, an initiative which started with an extraordinary success in May 2012 and continued to grow across the world in 2013, 2015 and 2017.

We invite everyone: from schools to producers, scientists, media and policy makers, and especially YOU to join in and contribute to this initiative and explore the applications of the latest state-of-the-art breakthroughs in plant science through interactive activities.

Many plant science institutions, universities, schools, botanical gardens and museums, together with farmers and industry, have opened their doors during the Fascination of Plants Day in 2012, 2013, 2015 and 2017 and attracted countless participants.

Fascination of Plants Day is officially held on the 18th of May but, events will be organised throughout the whole month of May. Contact your National Coordinator or the EPSO Global Coordinators to assist you with the organization of your fascinating events!
